Praise for police reflects progress in curbing crime, solving violations

The four Quad-City police departments and the Madison County sheriff's staff were the subject of well-deserved praise at last week's annual Elks police recognition diner. As brought out at the meeting, all are seeking in a variety of ways to upgrade the difficult, muchneeded services they perform. Among the accomplishments cited was the Granite City department's progress in achieving "community omni-presence," prompting many comments that "every time you turnaround in Granite City, you see a police car." This is one of the key ingredients of effective law en forcement, and it is much harder of attain in a city of more than 40,000 population than in a municipality where there are only a few streets to part.

patrol.
Factors in the Granite City program include concentration on one-officer cars and a decision to transfer clerical duties to others, enabling all active officers to spend nearly all of their working hours patroling the city and responding to calls for assistance relayed to them
by radio

The principal negative factor is that some calls justify the presence that some calls justify the presence of more than one officer; the safety problem is further aggravated by the two new non-specially-designed cars, which prevent locking an arrested individual into the backseat compartment.

But there is no question that the "let's get everybody on the street" approach is bringing results. Hazards are reduced as much as possible by dispatching a second car to the scene quickly when it appears that an assignment will not be "routine"—if there is any such thing as a truly routine assignment in the dangerous life of a policeman.

Last week's awards to the five departments also spotlighted progress in community relations and services, surveillance, training and equipment modernization.

And last week's news occurrences also conveyed eloquently the fact that such factors as per; sonal valor and investigative skill and peristence play a big part in deterring and solving crimes. Two Madison area armed robberies were cleared almost immediately, with much of the loot recovered and charges filed against those taken into custody. against those taken into custody

A group called Illinois-Missouri Progressive Airport Creation Task Force has been formed to seek better bi-state cooperation in developing transportation links. Outstanding new retail facilities are being built and opened in the Quad-Cities. And the Illinois Metro-East industrial development corporation last week launched an ambitious effort to promote Southwestern Illinois industrial parks, harbor-rail-highway improvements, vocational education, recreation-tourism facilities, drainage, resoure utilization and an enhanced self-image through emphasis on Madison, St. Clair and Monroe Countes' economic and other advantages.

Appleton, Wis. Post-Crescent—President Richard Nixon should not resign his office.

The Post-Crescent supported his candidacy in 1972. But that is not the reason for our sup-porting his continued resistance to the rising tide of demands for his resignation.

The majority of the people in Nameoki Township seem to be satisfied to sit back and watch one man, Louis Whitsell, work sincerely for the benefit of the citizens and employes of our township.

They have promised to fight the sacrifice of "public health and environmental quality on the altar of the energy crisis or for excess corporate profits." The National Clean Air Coalition consists of the National Wildlife Federation, the Izaac Walton League of America, the Sierra Club, the National Audubon Society, the Wilderness Society of the National Audubon Society of the Nation

President Nixon's call for energy self-sufficiency in the United States by 1980 puts a severe demand on energy producers and users. I think it is a desirable goal. The U.S. cannot afford to be dependent on foreign sources for its energy. This policy has led to consideration of some of energy such as heat naturally occurring in rocks of volcanic regions, wind, tides and sun power. The federal government and some prints research may be such as a series of the se
